OPPOSED TO USING CONVICTS ON ROAD.

Opposition to the use of convicts in road work has been expressed by former Chaplain Walter Q. Vreeland, of the Frankfort Reformatory, in a letter to Hon. H. Green Garrett, of Winchester, chairman of the Kentucky Highway Commission. Mr. Vreeland, who is now pastor of a church at Simpsonville, expresses the opinion that, aside from the danger to the communities in using convicts on road work, as shown in the lamentable tragedy which cost the life of Miss Laura Parsons, in Harlan county, the exposure of the convict to public gaze humiliates and hardens him and makes all the more difficult the work of reformation.

Besides these reasons for his opposition Mr. Vreeland says experience has shown the difficulty of having direct supervision over convicts while engaged in road work and the impossibility of protecting the men from gambling, from the curiosity seekers, loafers, bootleggers and "the most depraved type of immoral women."

Mr. Vreeland's letter to Chairman Garrett says that in any community to which convicts are sent women and children are terrorized by their presence, and that the convicts themselves are constantly liable to the charge of committing any and every crime that may be committed where they are located in such camps.

CATCHING COLD

MINTOL OFTEN PREVENTS PNEUMONIA.

It is surprising to read in the daily papers of treatments that our forefathers and grandmothers used for coughs, colds, catarrh and bronchial affections. It impresses the writer with the fact that modern scientific re-search had not advanced an iota, when, as a matter of fact, there have been wonderful advancements in the treatment of all diseases and conditions that bring on disease. Just because grandmother used old-fashioned mustard plasters for relieving colds and congested conditions it is no sane reason why we should resort to the old antiquated methods when there have been such wonderful improvements and new discoveries of remedies which are far more effective and less painful to use.

SPECIAL NOTICE—A druggist said the other day that a customer came into his store and inquired for a mustard plaster and he suggested to the customer that he try MINTOL as a more modern treatment for congested conditions. The customer accepted the druggist's suggestion and in twenty-four hours the same customer came into the druggist and said: "How long have you handled MINTOL?" The druggist replied that he had been handling it for some little time and the customer frankly stated that he would never use a mustard cream or plaster for colds, coughs, or any congested conditions again. There are thousands of others who would say the same as this druggist's customer did, if they would only try MINTOL. If your druggist cannot supply you we will mail you a jar on receipt of price—35c, 60c and $1.25 a jar. The Home Relief Laboratories, Boston, Mass. (adv)

ONE SECRET OF CO-OPERATION

The farmers who are starting co-operative marketing associations should keep in mind one principle which seems essential. These societies should be given control of the entire product of the members of the association.

Many co-operative associations have failed because they were not assured that they would have the handling of the entire crops of the members. If the latter got what seemed to be a good outside offer, they would take it up, and the association could not depend upon a regular trace.

Of course it might be a good idea to give members of such associations rights to dispose of surplus products at times when the market is glutted.

CAN'T KEEP IT DOWN

You can't keep a good man down, says the old phrase. No more can you keep a good country down. Many business men have been talking in a rather blue way, seeing certain immediate difficulties in the way of prosperity.

The American temperament does not trifle with the problems it meets. Its buoyant enthusiasm, its unbounded energy, go to work whenever difficulties present themselves, and it thinks out ways to meet these obstacles and remove them.

So it will be with all the problems that confront the United States at this moment. Inflated credits, high prices, class feeling, social unrest, all these obstacles have to be faced and conquered. The same spirit that cut down the forests and built railroads and laughed at all impediments will not be daunted by the economic and civic problems of these times.

Death.

Death is not terrible—when you think how many dear ones you will but be following—and they'll be somewhere—waiting—that all the people of history came to die one time—why it is very natural and gentle—not awful at all. Only hard for those lonely ones it leaves behind. Sad for them, and because of any work unfinished.—Exchange.
